Recognizing friends and supporters of Emerson Hospital as we celebrate 100 years of service to the community.
We are pleased to share with you these reflections in this, our annual report on giving.

In 1910, Charles Emerson, nephew of Ralph Waldo Emerson, donated 80 acres of land and $20,000 to establish a hospital on the banks of the Sudbury River in Concord. The gift from Mr. Emerson established a 14-room “cottage” that was dedicated as the Concord Deaconess Hospital on November 12, 1911.

His generosity established not only this hospital, but several traditions that we hold dear to this day. As we approach the 100th anniversary of the hospital’s founding, we pause to reflect on the impact of his gift and the traditions that it inspired.

Compassionate, personalized care. Charles Emerson’s donation ensured that the outstanding care given to his wife, Theresia, in Boston, could be replicated in Concord. Today, the care we provide our patients continues to be recognized as exemplary. Last year, we were pleased to be named one of the top community hospitals in Massachusetts by Boston magazine.

A hospital evolving to meet the needs of the community. We have come a long way from a cottage with 14 beds in 1911. Major additions and developments last year range from the opening of a new Emerson facility in Bedford, the addition of 12 new primary care and specialty physicians, the new Betty Winter Anti-Coagulation Management Center, a remodeled behavioral health unit, and a renovated Emergency Department that improves access to critical services.

A tradition of community support. In the pages that follow, you will hear from some well known friends, whose generosity embodies the incredible connections between Emerson and the communities we serve. We humbly recognize and thank all of our donors for their caring and commitment. In Fiscal Year 2010, gifts and commitments from our supporters amounted to more than $4 million.

These gifts will extend the legacy of Charles Emerson into a new century of premium care, close to home.

Sincerely,

Christine C. Schuster

The poet Ralph Waldo Emerson once wrote, “Do not go where the path may lead, go instead where there is no path and leave a trail.” The act of handing down from the past, of forging forward with visionary vigor, of leaving a “trail” behind as a legacy of kindness and generosity, were values that his nephew, Emerson Hospital founder Charles Emerson, embodied.

Concord is a town enamored with its own sense of history, and all good stories start at the beginning. As a student at Harvard, Mr. Emerson often visited his family in Concord. Ralph Waldo once wrote to Charles’ father, “Charles walked up last Sunday morning from Cambridge and spent the day with us, to the great pleasure of the family, and walked back Monday.”

After his Civil War service and graduation from Harvard, Mr. Emerson studied medicine in Germany and Austria. Overseas, he married Theresia Keveschi in 1871. For the rest of her life, Theresia battled health problems, and during her last illness, she was a patient at the Deaconess Hospital in Boston.

Mr. Emerson was impressed with the care at the Deaconess Hospital and so, on December 31, 1910, he granted to the New England Deaconess Association multiple tracts of land in Concord. In doing so, Mr. Emerson provided the necessary means for the New England Deaconess Association to create a hospital facility in Concord. In memory of his late wife and carrying out her last wishes, he donated more than 80 acres of land, numerous existing buildings, and an additional $20,000.

Emerson Hospital’s traditions of compassionate care were firmly established by his visionary gift. Today, Emerson is a multi-site health system with additional facilities in Bedford, Groton, Sudbury, and Westford. The 179-bed hospital provides advanced medical services to more than 300,000 individuals in 25 towns.

After acquiring the tracts of land, the New England Deaconess Association began construction of a hospital along the Sudbury River in the spring of 1911. At the time, Mr. Emerson said, “...It has been a great satisfaction to me to watch the progress you have made here...” It is our great hope that he would feel the same way today.

— Charles Emerson, founder, Emerson Hospital
REFLECTING ON A LEGACY OF AUXILIARY SUPPORT

“It was a privilege for each of us to serve as president of the Emerson Hospital Auxiliary and to work closely with the hospital to bring the Emerson message to the towns it serves. The hospital is a critical resource for the community, not only because of the high quality of its staff and the care and treatment it provides, but also for its commitment to education and outreach. It was that opportunity to support these goals that made our tasks so worthwhile and rewarding.

When we each moved to the area, we were drawn to the hospital and its Auxiliary as early as the 1960s. As we worked on various programs, we made lasting friendships with people we would normally not have had the opportunity to meet. When each of us was president, the Emerson Hospital Auxiliary was a two-tiered organization with local units in each of the towns serviced by the hospital. We had units in Acton-Boxborough-Stow, Bedford, Carlisle, Concord, Lincoln, Sudbury, and Westford, all operating under the umbrella of an overall Auxiliary Board of Directors. These units played an important role in attracting local support for the hospital, providing educational programs for the community, and developing a cadre of committed Emerson advocates, many of whom still serve as Corporators of Emerson. We all came together for signature fundraising events throughout the year, including the rummage sale, which began in 1927; the Christmas shop, which was anxiously anticipated each year; the Mayflower Ball; the Cabaret May Magic; the tennis tournament; the golf tournament; and the spring Pops concert.

What we remember most from those years are the wonderful people at the hospital with whom we worked. We saw commitment to excellence by our health care providers and sustaining involvement from the community. This level of cooperation is what still keeps us active and involved in promoting Emerson Hospital.”

GIFTING HER TIME

“When I asked my husband what I should say about my years being a buyer at the hospital gift shop, he said, “...that’s easy, you like to spend other people’s money!” But, it is much more than that. I love people, and I enjoy retail buying and selling and being with all sorts of wonderful volunteers and staff selling exciting gifts, jewelry, toys, and clothes. Being able to give the proceeds back to the hospital makes it all the more worthwhile. Why wouldn’t I love doing it? That is why I have been involved with the hospital for so many years.

The time has gone by fast, and I have made so many wonderful, caring friends in a great hospital environment. I am most proud of the fact that the hospital has grown intelligently and responsibly over the many years I have been around, and it still retains the personal touch.”

— Joan Lawrence, Volunteer

“Joany,” as she is known by friends and co-workers, has volunteered a total of 40+ years and 13,945 hours at Emerson Hospital—all in the gift shop. “Joany is a vivacious volunteer—she gets so excited over every new item introduced into the shop,” said Sharon Knox, director of community services.

Emerson Hospital relies on its outstanding volunteers. In 2010, they gave 71,343 hours of service to Emerson, representing an estimated value of more than $1 million. New volunteers included 84 adults and 55 students. With more than 520 adult and student volunteers, Emerson has more volunteers per bed than any other hospital in Massachusetts. The average volunteer at Emerson gives more than 135 hours per year; and they hail from 43 area towns.

The gift shop was staffed by 47 volunteers who worked a total of 5,988 hours to keep the shop open seven days a week. The gift shop net proceeds of $113,000 were donated to the hospital in fiscal year 2010.
HAARTZ FAMILY IS ALL HEART

Volunteer work at Emerson is a Haartz family effort at all organizational levels.

Eric began his service to Emerson as a Corporator, and he is currently serving his second term on the hospital Board, where he chairs the Quality Committee. With his manufacturing background [The Haartz Corporation is the world’s #1 manufacturer of convertible topping and a leading manufacturer in North America of interior automotive trim], Eric is integral to the hospital’s quality improvement initiative. “Emerson is making great progress toward excellence across its spectrum of health care services,” said Eric. “Kudos to the hospital teams, physicians, and nurses who improved our service quality in 2010.”

Denise energizes the Emerson Hospital Auxiliary in various capacities, most recently as past president. A Corporator and co-chair of Emerson’s upcoming 100th anniversary gala in November, 2011, she also serves on the Emerson Health Care Foundation Board. “It is truly amazing to work with so many talented people who want to make a difference in the lives of others,” said Denise.

Deborah was inspired to help other children after she received a coping kit [bags of therapeutic toys given to pediatric patients at Emerson]. At 10 years old, she joined the many Auxiliary members who make stuffed teddy bears for the pediatric intervention team. At age 12, she co-founded Kidz Helping Kidz, raising $5,500 for coping kits. Last summer, at 15, she joined the ranks of hospital volunteers as a candy striper. “The time I spend as an Emerson volunteer is the time I value the most,” said Deborah.

– ERIC, DENISE, AND DEBORAH HAARTZ
Win and Sarah Hindle, Concord residents since 1965, have seen tremendous changes at Emerson Hospital through the years, many of which were made possible by their generous support and wise leadership.

“My connection with Emerson dates back to my career at Digital Equipment Corporation in Maynard, said Win. “Digital had strong ties to the community and Emerson was one of the organizations that received designated funds for philanthropic support.”

“We are very proud to see all the growth in new programs and services, the expanding affiliations with the Boston hospitals for specialized care, and the excellent physicians who have joined the medical staff,” he added.

Win has served as an Emerson Board member since 1991. He is active on several Board Committees, including the President’s Advisory Group, the Quality Committee and the Audit Committee, which he chairs. He is also currently a member of the Emerson Hospital Foundation Board; which he chaired from 2000–2006.

Win was one of three co-chairs for the Emerson and the Community Capital Campaign in 1999, when the Critical Care Unit was named in Sarah and Win’s honor in appreciation for their gift and Win’s service. Since then, they have generously supported the Emerson fundraising initiative for Project SCORE.

Although “Emerson green” runs through their core, they have also given of their time and treasure in the community. Sarah has been a hospital Corporator and has served on the Boards of the Concord Free Public Library, the Concord-Carlisle Scholarship Fund and two Garden Clubs. She currently serves on the board of the Virginia Thurston Healing Garden in Harvard. Both Sarah and Win serve as Trustees of the Concord Museum and are very active at the West Concord Union Church.

Raising their family in the community, the Hindles became personally familiar with the hospital first through the Emergency Department. “Emerson has always had a top-notch Emergency Department and we have had many occasions to visit through the years,” recalled Sarah.

The Hindles, who recently celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary, have three children and six grandchildren. In the spirit of their long-standing involvement with the hospital, they are bringing their adult children into the Emerson fold now as well. Their daughter, Karen Donoghue, is a Corporator from Acton.

“Emerson has always been a very caring place,” said Win. “Our experiences at the hospital made us believers in the value of a high quality medical facility in our community. We want to ensure that it remains strong and viable for generations to come.”
